Asset management strategy

The fund gained +0.44% in June, in line with its benchmark index which ended the month up 0.44%. The portfolio's investment rate and beta at the end of the month were 83.2% (including CDS exposure) and 90%, respectively, giving a yield to worst of 5% and a modified duration of 3.1. Beta decreased during the month (96% at the end of May), following the implementation of a credit hedge via Xover.

The strong market performance in June was driven by a further 30 bps tightening in credit spreads, which ended the month at 323 bps. Credit spreads are now well below their long-term average of around 400 bps. The good health of the euro high yield market is partly linked to the redeployment of capital previously invested in the US markets, whose momentum is losing steam as concerns about US debt and the health of the US consumer grow. The economic situation in Europe remains fragile, however, with sluggish growth and pressure on corporate margins.

In this bull market, it should be noted that the spread between B-rated companies and BB-rated companies, around 150 bps, did not tighten over the month, unlike the big tightening seen in May. The search for yield has therefore stalled and the weaker names do not necessarily appear attractive, a sign that investors are not ready to buy just anything. At this average market spread level, many names are starting to appear unattractive in terms of risk/return. By rating, CCCs underperformed significantly at -1.4%, penalised by the declines in distressed names Altice International, Kemone, Victoria and Cerba (to which the fund is not exposed), while BBs were at +0.5% and Bs at +0.7%.

During the month, the fund benefited from the rebound in high beta securities to which it is exposed, including the bonds of property companies Alstria and Aroundtown. A lower exposure to ZF and no exposure to Kemone and Altice International also added value. On the other hand, it suffered from the implementation of a credit hedge (-5 bps), as well as from the reduced exposure to Eutelsat, which announced a significant capital increase during the month, mainly subscribed by the French government.

The primary market was once again extremely active in June, with €23bn of new issues. For the second consecutive month, this was the highest monthly issuance level ever reached on the European high yield market (€18bn in May 2025). The most notable transactions during the month were the refinancing of Fibercorp (€2.8bn), TeamSystem (€1.55bn), Techem (€1.15bn), CMA CGM (€600M), Benteler (€600m) and Cheplapharm (€500m). We also note the massive arrival of new issuers, with Mehilainen (€1.1bn), Urbaser (€800m), Maxam (€790m) and Doc Group (€590m).

In terms of flows, inflows were strong during the month, at $4.9bn on the European high yield market – a clear acceleration compared to inflows in May (+$2.4bn). The market has continued to see an overall outflow since the beginning of the year, however, at -$5.5bn. In the United States, inflows were equivalent over the month to $5.2bn. This brings net inflows into the US market in the year to date to $12.2bn.
