Asset management strategy

The fund gained 0.30%, compared with a 0.58% rise in its benchmark. This underperformance was mainly a result of the portfolio being hedged via the Crossover, costing 20 bps of relative performance, as well as its underweight in Atos and Pemex, which cost 5 bps. However, some bets proved to be winners, notably in telecoms (up 3 bps in relative terms) with SFR and PLT, as well as real estate (up 2 bps in relative terms) thanks to the fund's exposure to Arroundtown and Alstria Altice International. The fund participated selectively in the primary market (Inpost, Gestamp and Intralot). With spreads historically tight, the portfolio's defensive positioning remained unchanged.

The European high-yield market gained 0.58%, tightening 17 bps, bringing spread compression in the year to date to over 70 bps. Performance by rating confirmed this trend, with BB-rated debt up 0.60%, B-rated debt up 0.61%, hybrid debt up 0.70% and CCC-rated debt up 0.5%. The top-performing sectors were energy (up 1.73%), technology (up 0.96%) and automotive (up 0.7%), while the poorest performers were transport (down 0.02%), media (up 0.23%) and basic materials (up 0.46%). In idiosyncratic news, Altice France finalised its debt restructuring, approved by the French and US courts, reducing its net debt to €15.8 billion. Creditors have received 45% of the capital and maturities have been pushed back to 2028-2033, with a €400 million reduction in annual interest costs. September was a busy month for the primary market, with over €17 billion in new issues, mainly for refinancing purposes. On the demand side, European inflows were strong, coming in at $3.1 billion in September, bringing annual inflows to nearly $9 billion. In the US, the asset class proved broadly popular with investors, attracting net inflows of $3.8 billion. Year-to-date net inflows into the US high-yield market total $22.7 billion.

Investors were not surprised by the nature and pace of central banks' choice of monetary policy adjustments. As expected, the Fed resumed its rate cuts, with a 25 bps cut to 4–4.25%, justified by the deteriorating labour market situation. The ECB left rates unchanged, believing its monetary policy to be well positioned in a context of close-to-target inflation. On the political front, the drama continued in France, with the appointment of the third prime minister since the dissolution of parliament, and in the US, with Trump racking up his fourth government shutdown since the start of his first term of office.
