Asset management strategy

The fund gained 0.24% in August, outperforming its benchmark, which ended the month 0.08% higher. The portfolio's investment ratio and beta ended the month at 75% (iTraxx Exposition Included) and 75% respectively, with the fund's positioning changing little in the month. At the end of August, the yield to worst was 4.6% and modified duration was 2.97.

The month fell into two quite different phases. Initially, credit spreads continued to tighten, in line with recent months. On 15 August spreads to worst reached 269 bps, a level not seen since January 2018. After that, uncertainties over US consumption, pressure on the Fed from Donald Trump and the announcement by the French prime minister of a vote of confidence in early September dampened the market, with spreads ending the month 13 bps wider at 294 bps. Spreads have nevertheless still tightened by more than 50 bps in the year to date.

In this bullish market, it should be noted that the spread between B-rated and BB-rated corporate debt has stopped narrowing, holding steady at around 150 bp for the past three months. Also of note is the fact that CCC-rated debt, down 1.89%, significantly underperformed B- and BB-rated debt, up 0.29% and 0.15% respectively. Despite the search for yield, investors no longer seem inclined to increase the proportion of high-beta names in their portfolios, while default rates have risen over the past 12 months. Names that struggled during the month include Kloeckner, whose bonds fell sharply (down 25 points), and KemOne (down 13 points), to which the fund is not exposed.

During the month, the fund benefited from the very sharp rally in Antolin after the Spanish automotive equipment manufacturer announced it had secured a new credit line. In equipment manufacturing, strong results from Adler Pelzer and ZF were also positive for fund performance. On the other hand, performance was penalised by the fund's exposure to pharmaceutical firm Centrient, which reported disappointing results.

The primary market had a quiet month in August, after an exceptionally busy spring. Spanish recycling firm Urbaser issued a PIK bond, VMED O2 issued a 2032 bond fungible with its existing issue, and Graanul successfully amended and extended its bonds into new 2029 bonds. The fund did not participate in these issues.

In terms of flows, the European high-yield market saw strong inflows of almost $5 billion in the month, an all-time high for August. Inflows into the European market have now been positive for 16 consecutive weeks. Flows were slightly less buoyant in the US, totalling $3 billion in the month, with year-to-date inflows already standing at $19 billion.
